President's Report

What sub-prime crisis?

Recently, news of the sub-prime mortgage meltdown has come at us from all directions. Consumer confidence in the economy has fallen and some lenders have been forced to take huge write-downs on assets linked to subprime mortgages.

Where does your Credit Union stand amidst a marketplace in which some big banks and investment firms are declaring heavy losses? I'm happy to report that the safety and soundness of UFCU is rock solid. UFCU has not and will not make sub-prime mortgage loans. While some lenders in recent years lowered credit standards and made loans to people with poor credit, often with no money down, UFCU maintained sound underwriting standards to fund real estate loans on properties with sound valuations.

Is UFCU suffering from a credit crunch? Quite the contrary...We have funds to lend and are open for business! We are positioned to assist members suffering from broken ARMs. We stand ready to assist members wishing to finance new homes or refinance existing mortgages. We can also help members finance business needs or purchase new vehicles.

How can we do this? As a member-owned financial cooperative, our business model is relatively simple. Member savings on deposit with UFCU are loaned to other members with finance needs. Member deposits earn competitive returns while making it possible for borrowers to pay competitive loan rates. We facilitate that process and we do it well. In fact, United States taxpayers have never bailed out a credit union!

UFCU management ensures that the underwriting pendulum swings neither too liberally or too conservatively. Our employees know our members and are trained to "build" loans by understanding members' needs. A loan from UFCU is priced appropriately and underwritten correctly. Our employees are trained to assist members experiencing financial challenges by proactively intervening early on and tailoring payment arrangements to meet member circumstances.

UFCU lending practices are open and transparent. We do not participate in risky mortgage loans financed with no-money down on properties with inflated appraisals. We serve a local market; in fact, all our real estate loans are made on properties located within the state of Texas. We are fortunate to do business in an area of the country that continues to see relatively strong real estate values.

As a member-owned financial cooperative we never forget that you own us! Thank you for your business and continued confidence in UFCU.

Warmest regards,

Junk Mail: Here's How to Fight It

Tired of unsolicited credit card offers, junk mail at home, junk emails?

You can do a lot to stop it.

The Big Question: Why do so many people have so much information about you? Because you agreed for companies you deal with to either give or sell your private information to virtually anyone!

Don't remember doing that? That's because most companies deliberately made it difficult for you to "opt out," to stop the spread of your personal and financial information. Unless you went to great efforts over the last few years to "opt out" of dozens of databases, your whole life is for sale. UFCU makes it a point to keep all of the information you submit to us private and does not participate in such practices.

Who's making money on your information? Not UFCU, but just about everybody else. Credit bureaus and list vendors (who scoop up all information available on any living or dead person) are the main folks. The list vendors alone have information on more than 140 million people.

Can you really stop any of this? Yes you can. Here's a plan.

1. Send a letter, or visit junkbusters.com, and "opt out" from the five main list vendors. If you tell these vendors not to rent information about you or your household, you'll cut back on junk mail from hundreds of companies. Junkbusters' website gives you the address and even a draft letter to send.
2. Call your phone companies and tell them you want to opt out of "CPNI sharing." Unless you tell them not to, phone companies generally have the right to sell all the information about you that appears on your phone bills: they can sell the number you call, the time and duration of the call, anything on your bill. Marketers use this information to target junk mail. Read more about CPNI sharing at epic.org/privacy/cpni.

3. Tell the credit bureaus to take you off their "pre-screened" list. These lists are the reason you get so many credit card offers. Call this number, tell them you want to opt out, and you'll stop getting the offers in about six weeks: 1-888-5-OPTOUT.
4. Make sure you've registered both your home phone and your cell phone numbers with the national "Do Not Call" database. Call 1-888-382-1222. For TTY, call 1-866-290-4236.
5. Work through our Privacy and Fraud Protection section on UFCU's website. Go to ufcu.org and click on Learning Center. Junk mail is a direct result of your private information being shared. We give you dozens of excellent tips and links to make you a smarter protector of your privacy rights.

Start your plan today. A Big Difference: UFCU is a privacy advocate for you. We want you to be protected and to feel safe. That's why we're part of the solution, not part of the problem.

Anybody else doing that for you?

A Lot of Wrong Answers – That's What You Get

Listen to a lot of the "consumer tips" offered by some car sellers, and you'll get into a lot of trouble.

"Don't waste your time comparison shopping!" one dealer says. "We guarantee the lowest price!"

Another dealer says, "Don't get confused by all those high-pressure salesmen! Come to the one-price dealership! Hey, we're so sure no one can beat our price, we'll pay you a thousand dollars if anyone beats us!" With good advice and guarantees like that, why do you need to shop?

Or, what about this: "Only buy from the guaranteed lowest price dealer! We discount $6,000 on every used vehicle in stock!" Boy, you'd better rush down there, right?

Forget it. Many dealerships and financing institutions give you worthless advice when it comes to buying and financing a car, for a simple reason—their job isn't to help you, it's to maximize their profit. Great for the dealership, but bad for you.

Consider the "guaranteed lowest price" gimmicks. The guarantees are worthless. The sellers usually make it impossible for you to check their guarantee. And the $6,000 discount? Not hard to do when you've raised the price on each vehicle $6,000 before "lowering" it to the "sale" price.

Don't fall for phony car buying tips and gimmicks. Instead, dive into the amazing—and real—car buying tips we have for you.

Did you know UFCU has powerful tools to help you in the car buying transaction?

And would tools like this help you?

- Before you ever think new or used, we give you a tool to help you determine what you can really afford to spend on a vehicle—and our tool is based on your budget, not based on maximizing a dealer's profit.
- If you decide to buy used, we give you an entire section on doing it right. Buying used is as different from buying new as hot is to cold. Listen to some dealer spiels and you'll throw away thousands—and that's before you finance.
- If you're planning to finance, we give you an honest and foolproof way to know if the dealer's financing is cheaper than a bank's or this credit union's financing. Get this: Most dealers chose your financing company based on which company pays them the biggest profit—not on the company that gives you the best rate!
- Want to sell your old car yourself? We show you how.

For nearly 30 years, my books and articles on the car business have been the mainstay of hundreds of consumer groups around America. All that knowledge is distilled into UFCU's Wheels 101® resources.

Why not see if our tips are really better than theirs? Just head to UFCU's "Vehicle Ownership" in the Learning Center at ufcu.org, and let me know what you think!

Paying for College

It is that time of year. Students will start receiving financial aid notifications (award letters) from the colleges of their choice about what they can expect to receive in financial aid. As much as everyone hopes to see grants and scholarships as the sole source of funding, it is likely that there will be a loan included in that award letter. It is important to understand the difference in the types of aid before making the decision on what to accept.

First and foremost, all students should complete a FAFSA (Federal Application for Federal Student Aid) as it is the driver behind what students qualify for. Many people think that they do not “qualify for federal aid” based on their income. What most people do not realize is that all people qualify for federal aid (Stafford and Parent Loans), what will differ among people is whether it is need-based aid or not need-based.

Grants and scholarships are always going to be the first thing that a student or parent will want to accept. This is “free” money . . . funds that do not have to be repaid after the student completes school. Typically, grants are awarded to the neediest students first so do not be alarmed if there are no grants included in your award. If there are, definitely accept them!

Stafford Loans are taken out in the student’s name each academic year. There are two types of Stafford Loans available. The Subsidized Stafford Loan is a need-based loan where the government pays the interest while in school. Unsubsidized Stafford Loans are not need-based and the student is responsible for interest. Students must complete the FAFSA (www.fafsa.ed.gov) in order to be awarded a Stafford Loan. The type of Stafford awarded is determined by the information received from the FAFSA. The amount a student qualifies for depends on the year of school the student is in. Both types of Stafford Loans are deferrable as long as a student is in school at least half-time or in an eligible deferment or forbearance period.

Parent Loans, also known as PLUS Loans, fill the gap between what the student qualifies for on their own and the cost of education outlined by the school. Parents can borrow up to the full cost of education, less any other aid received by the student such as grants, scholarships, and work-study. If a parent is denied a Parent Loan based on adverse credit, a student may qualify for additional funds under the Stafford Loan program.

Graduate PLUS Loans are loans available to graduate students only. They fill the gap between what is received in a Stafford Loan and the cost of education.

Parents and students may receive offers in the mail or see ads on TV for a “student loan” with promises of $40,000 in less than 15 minutes. Consumers should make sure that they exhaust all federal sources of aid before moving on to these types of college loans called private or alternative loans. It is important to do your homework and make sure you understand the terms and fees associated with these loans before signing on the dotted line. Some of these loan companies have high interest rates and exorbitant fees associated with them.

Federal loans are insured in the event of disability or death and have deferments and forbearances available should you find yourself in a financial situation. These are built in safety nets to allow you to postpone payments and not affect your credit during times of financial stress.

Real Estate Markets In Decline? Not In Austin!

The Austin real estate market made the New York Times. In an article written on February 15, 2008 by Clifford Krauss and Ron Nixon, the headline read “AUSTIN, Tex.- The real estate market these days is a tale of two cities, and one of them is not doing too badly.”

Indeed, the number of sales in Austin may have slowed, but values continue to increase and homes continue to sell. As discussed in previous Currency Affairs real estate articles, we did not see the big boom, investor purchases and large scale flipping that other markets experienced. As a result, our median purchase price remained flat from 2001 to 2005, but last year our median price for a single family home rose 6.4% for a second straight year of healthy growth.

Comparing January 2007 and January 2008, the Austin Board of REALTORS® Multiple Listing Service reports that:

- The number of new listings on the market is up 35%.
- The average asking list price is down 1%.
- The number of closed sales is down 19%: December sales were slower, not surprising considering the news surrounding us.
- The number of pending sales (homes placed under contract) is up 12%. Buyers are back in the market and making purchases.
- The average sales price is up 12%. Homes are continuing to appreciate in many areas.
- The average days on the market is down 11%.
- Percentage of list price to closed price is down 6%. Buyers are negotiating the listing prices downward in many cases, but only slightly.

We did not experience the heady highs, but, in retrospect, that is a very good thing. As the chart indicates, we are not experiencing the depressing lows that many US markets are currently enduring.

Will we remain unaffected by the national housing problems?

- No:
- Losses in declining markets like Florida, California and Nevada have caused major changes in the availability of mortgage loans and the credit scores, assets and down payment needed to qualify. If the pool of available buyers decreases, fewer homes will sell.
 - While Texas is enjoying economic strength, we will be affected by the national and global economy. A 1930's type depression will certainly affect us.
- Yes:
- All of Central Texas is experiencing real population and job growth and we do not have an over-abundance of available housing.
 - Texas has core industries that are doing very well right now.
 - Texas continues to create twice as many jobs as the national average, and our unemployment rate is dropping.

Let UFCU Help You Roll with the Punches

Changing jobs or retiring and need to rollover your 401(k)? UFCU can do it for you, through our affiliation with CUSO Financial Services, L.P. (CFS).

Our CFS Financial Advisors can help you save time and money in just three easy steps:

1. They’ll help you develop an investment plan that works toward meeting your needs. Their IRAs can hold any combination of stocks, bonds, mutual funds and treasuries; the choice is yours.
2. They’ll fill out the paperwork for your 401(k) rollover. All you need to do is sign the completed paperwork.
3. They’ll contact your retirement plan sponsor. Simply request a direct rollover form from your employer, and our CFS Financial Advisors will move your eligible retirement plan distribution for you.

What is a 401(k) Rollover?

401(k) Rollover or Direct Rollover is how you continue to benefit from the tax-deferred growth of earnings being provided by your current 401(k) plan. A Direct Rollover can occur when you change jobs or retire, and allows all of your 401(k) plan assets to continue to accumulate on a tax-deferred basis until you begin your retirement distributions.

Can I take my 401(k) money now?

If you need the money and take some or all of the cash now from your 401(k), your employer will withhold 20% of the amount of the distribution. You may still owe federal income taxes, and state income taxes may be withheld as well. In addition, if you are under the age of 59 ½, you may have to pay a 10% penalty for early withdrawal. Therefore it is not advised to take cash distributions from your 401(k) Rollover.

Why should I open a Rollover account?

- When you leave a company’s employment and you have not yet reached 59 ½, your retirement plan may be the farthest thing from your mind. If you have a 401(k) plan with your former employer, however, you should take some time to consider what to do with the funds. How you handle your 401(k) account can result in anywhere from zero to hefty taxes and penalties.
- According to the Social Security Administration, 401(k) savings will provide one-third of your income during retirement, which is why you should continue to keep your 401(k) Rollover fully invested.
- Your 401(k) plan provides a powerful benefit tax-deferred growth of earnings. When you rollover your 401(k) to an IRA/Rollover account, you continue the tax deferral benefit. And, since you do not need to pay income taxes on any potential gains earned by your IRA/Rollover accounts until you withdraw them at retirement, your retirement savings can grow faster than a regular taxable account.
- You have the opportunity at a later time to place the funds in a new company’s 401(k) or similar plan if you are hired by another company that offers one. Rollover IRA funds are eligible for conversion to the Roth IRA, but keep in mind that the converted amount is subject to taxation at your current income tax rate.

For more information, visit the nearest UFCU branch and ask for a financial advisor, or call (512) 467-8080 x21081 to schedule your complimentary consultation, or visit us on the UFCU website at ufcu.org.

Investments offered through CUSO Financial Services, L.P. (CFS), are not NCUA/NCUSIF insured, are not credit union guaranteed and may lose value. Financial Advisors are employees of University Federal Credit Union (UFCU) and registered through CFS. UFCU is affiliated with CFS (Member FINRA/SIPC).

Preventing Carjacking/Theft

Unfortunately thousands of unsuspecting motorists are carjacked every year. Decrease your chances of being a carjacking victim with these steps:

To minimize the danger of being carjacked:

1. Think of saving your life first. Only then, think of your car and what's in it.
2. If another car bumps your car, stay inside with the windows shut and the door locked and drive to the nearest police or fire station.
3. Don't stop at isolated pay phones, cash machines or newspaper machines where you could become a carjacking victim.
4. Stay alert to people lurking near or moving toward your parked car.
5. Always keep the windows of your car shut and doors locked, whether you're in or out of your car.
6. Park only in well-lighted areas.

To prevent your car from being stolen:

1. Keep your registration card in your wallet instead of your glove compartment.
2. Use paint or an indelible marker to put the vehicle identification number (VIN) under the engine hood and trunk lid and on the battery. This number is usually found on the dashboard on the driver's side of the car.
3. If you have to leave personal property in your car, leave it in the trunk.
4. Keep your car in a garage and lock the garage door.
5. Use a security device like a steering wheel lock or a gear shift column lock.

If your car is stolen, have the following information ready to give to the police:

1. The year, make, model and color of the car.
2. The approximate time the car was stolen.
3. A description of anyone you may have seen loitering around your car before it was stolen.

By preparing yourself today, you will increase the chances that you and your belongings are protected at all times.
